

ELIZABETH FREEMAN

Interview with Elizabeth Freeman

Interviewer: Hello Elizabeth, how are you today?

Elizabeth: I am fine, thank you!

Interviewer: What are the main problems for African-Americans in your lifetime?

Elizabeth: So the main problems for African-Americans in my lifetime is slavery, because black people are treated like animals and not like humans.

Interviewer: What have you done for black rights?

Elizabeth: I didn't really do anything for black rights in general. I just was the first one to free myself from slavery with a lawyer!

Interviewer: Wow thats amazing! But I still wonder, what has improved for African-Americans in your lifetime.

Elizabeth: In 1808 slavery got forbidden in the United States of America.

Interviewer: Yes I have heard of this. What do you hope for in the future?

Elizabeth: I hope that slavery gets abolished worldwide.

Interviewer: Thank you very much for the interview!
